

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

Publishing Ethics and Policy

JAKRAYA believes in fair publishing policy. Publishing with JAKRAYA implies the following terms and conditions:

Originality of Work: The work described in the submitted manuscript/chapter must be original work of author(s), has not been published previously elsewhere (except in the form of an abstract and academic thesis) and is not submitted or under consideration for publications elsewhere including the journals published by us.

Corresponding Author: The corresponding author is responsible for ensuring the approval of the manuscript from all author(s) of submitted manuscript. The corresponding author is also responsible to take required permission (if any) from the concern authority or institution for the publication of article.

Permission and Approval: The necessary permission and approval of institutional ethical and welfare committee is required for publication of articles involving experiments on live animals and humans with the compliance to the rules and regulations in the country. If asked, corresponding author should submit the proof of permission and approval before final publication for accepted article.

Change in Authorship: The addition, deletion and re-arrangement of authorship in the accepted manuscript are possible at any time before publication of online article. However, the changes in authorship of accepted article is possible only after receiving the request from corresponding author along with reason and written agreement for suggested changes in authorship.

Disclosure of Conflict: The author(s) must disclose or reveal the possible conflict of interest arising from the submitted manuscript/chapter at any level.

Editing Rights: The editor(s) or publisher reserved the right to edits the accepted manuscript for wide readability. However, the proof of edited manuscript will be sent to the corresponding author for approval before publication.

Copyright Permission: The corresponding author is required to obtain the necessary permission of texts, passages, tables, figures/illustrations and artworks published previously elsewhere from the copyright owners at the time of manuscript/chapter submission. The journal editor(s) or publisher do not held responsible legally for any claims and compensations.

Online Availability of Article/Chapter: The published article/chapter may be available online (except hybrid/subscribed journals) to the interested readers for non-commercial uses in any medium or format including the reproduction and distributions provided that the original source is properly cited. However, the written permission is required for any type of commercial uses of the published articles, data or contents.

Author's Right: The author(s) have the rights to reproduce, circulate and archive the published article (except hybrid/subscribed journals) in any format or medium for non-commercial purposes. However, written permission is required from the copyright owner for any type of commercial uses of the published articles.

Further Support: Feel free to contact through email (info@jakraya.com) if you have any questions, comments and further information.

Plagiarism Policy

Jakraya welcome original works from the author(s) all around the world. The plagiarised materials/manuscript/article/data cannot be considered for publication, while plagiarism of any type will incur sanctions against all author(s) of submitted manuscript/article/materials/data. Jakraya reserve the right to impose sanctions in case of plagiarism, regardless of journal published by us or not, while the plagiarised manuscript will be immediately rejected or removed from the website or link will provided to the original sources. Further, Jakraya may impose prohibitions for any new submission and removal of any manuscript submitted by authors of plagiarised manuscript/articles/materials/data individually or with other authors for at least 12-36 months including the prohibitions to serve on the editorial board of any journals published by us. The plagiarism sanctions will be impose in following cases:

- Submission or publication of another authors published or unpublished work or very close imitations of another's work as owns original works.
- Self-plagiarism by duplicate submission or publication of same work in multiple journals. Using large chunks or substantial parts of previously published work by cut and paste without any appropriate citations.
- Unnecessary owns citations to increase the number of citations or unnecessary citations of articles from particular journals.

Feel free to contact through email (info@jakraya.com) if you have any questions, comments and further information.

Copyright Policy

The accepted article becomes the copyright of the journal publisher and author(s) agrees to automatic transfer of the copyright to the journal publisher. The transfer of copyright will ensure the widest possible dissemination of information. If asked, author should transfer a copyright electronically uploading the scanned copy via emails (info@jakraya.com) or by online submission system.

Open Access Policy

Open Access Journal or Open Access Article, are freely available online to the best interest of scientific and research community without any subscription charges. Review and Editorial standards are similar to traditional subscription based journals. Open Access Articles published in Journals are licensed under the terms of Creative Commons Attribution Non-Commercial License, which permits unrestricted, non-commercial use, distribution and reproduction in any medium, providing that the work is properly cited.

Feel free to contact through email (info@jakraya.com) if you have any questions, comments and further information.

Review and Editorial Policy

Every submitted manuscript is subject to peer-review by at least two independent expert reviewers. The submitted manuscript meets the expected academic excellence is subject to peer-review only. However, the editor(s) reserve the right to reject the submitted manuscript without peer-review due to lack of originality, scientific depth and quality of presentation. In the peer-review, author(s) and reviewers will/may remain anonymous. Editor(s) reserve the right to take the final decision on submitted manuscript based on the comments of the two independent expert reviewers'. Approval of Editor(s) is/are required for final acceptance and publication of any citable manuscript.

Feel free to contact through email (info@jakraya.com) if you have any questions, comments and further information.